December is a Month for Disease Prevention & Infection Control

As a winter month, we must dedicate it to increasing awareness to understanding the importance of using effective ways to prevent the spread of infections. Germs are everywhere.

A Clorox based cleanup is recommended for door knobs, countertops in the kitchen, bathroom, etc. Hand washing is one of the most effective, inexpensive & easy way of infection control.

Use hand sanitizer only when soap & water is not readily available. Avoid sick people. Stay home when sick if possible. Stay hydrated. Eat healthy. Cough into disposable tissue or into the fold of the elbow. Commit to efforts to Stop the spread of germs to your family members & others around you. Stay healthy. Wash hands frequently. It is still not too late to check with your health provider to get the flu shot, if no contraindications.

Be inspired to stay in the spirit of good health, especially in the winter month of December & take control of your health.
